Church family,

This Sunday in worship we will share in a congregational commitment to the deacon ministry in our church. We've done this before and I believe it is a valuable way for us to acknowledge God's call to service and celebrate the heartfelt willingness of brothers and sisters in Christ to serve one another. It's a common pledge to lift one another in prayer, both the one serving and the one being served. It's a recognition that we all are vessels of clay the Lord molds and shapes, both the one serving and the one being served. It's a celebration that humility is being enacted, both by the one serving and the one receiving. May our service together and toward one another be an illustration of Christ at work, and may he be glorified in his Body. "For the Son of Man did not come to be served but to serve..."

Serving Christ Together,

Brian
